

Mapping With Melanin™ — One-Tap Endorsement Tag System

Feature name (user-facing): "What stands out?"

Document type: Paste-ready build specification for Replit Agent

Version: 1.0

Prepared by: Manus AI for the founder of Mapping With Melanin™

Section 0 — Read This First (Replit Instructions)

You are building a one-tap endorsement system that replaces written reviews as the primary praise mechanism in Mapping With Melanin. A user who has visited a business opens the business profile, taps the "What stands out?" panel, and selects one or more pre-written endorsement tags. One tap equals one endorsement. The business profile then displays counts in the exact format `[count] said [tag]` , for example "101 said Grandma Approved."

This is not a star-rating system, and it is not Yelp. Every tag in this document is written the way a community member actually talks about a place to a friend. Do not rewrite, sanitize, "professionalize," or translate these tags into neutral corporate language. The wording is the product.

Nine rules govern the entire build, and none of them are negotiable.

#	Rule	Implementation consequence
1	Tags are earned, never self-assigned	No business-side UI may ever create, select, edit, hide, or reorder its own tags. Tag rows are writable only by the endorsement endpoint.
2	10 taps is the display threshold	A tag becomes publicly visible on the profile at <code>count >= 10</code> . Below 10 it is stored and counted but hidden from public view.
3	One user, one tap, per tag, per business	Enforced by a unique database constraint, not by client-side state. A second tap is an un-tap (decrement + delete row).

4	Tags shown are driven by business category , never by who the user is	The candidate tag set is a pure function of <code>category_id</code> plus <code>subcategory_id</code> . User identity never filters which tags appear.
5	Cultural variants resolve from the user's own saved language/community preference , never from inferred race, name, photo, or neighborhood	This is the One-Way Mirror Rule applied to endorsements. See Section 4.
6	The app never tells a user that a tag was shown to them because of who they are	Copy must reference language preference only: "Shown in your language."
7	Endorsements are praise-only	There is no negative tag, no downvote, no "thumbs down." Concerns route to the existing private feedback/report flow, never to a public counter.
8	Vibe tags are separate from endorsement tags	Stored in the same table with <code>tag_type = 'vibe'</code> but rendered in a distinct UI section labeled "The Vibe," and only for experience categories (Section 6).
9	Safety and welcome language is never derived from police, arrest, crime, or census income data	Tags such as "Felt Safe The Whole Time" and "Safe Space For Girls" are community-reported lived experience only. Never join these counts against any crime dataset.

Scale of this specification: 22 main categories, 11 cultural communities plus a default, 10 adaptive tag families with 12 label variants each, and roughly 240 endorsement tags plus 60 vibe tags. Seed all of it. Do not build a subset and call it done.

Section 1 — The Three Tag Types

Every endorsement tag in the system carries a `tag_type` that determines how it behaves.

Type	Code	Count per category	Behavior
------	------	--------------------	----------

Universal	universal	2–3	Identical label for every user in every community. Available on every business in the category.
Culturally Adaptive	adaptive	2–3	One shared tag_family with a different display label per community. All variants roll up to one count.
Category-Specific	specific	4–6	Only makes sense for that business type. Some are further scoped to a subcategory.
Vibe	vibe	6–8	Atmosphere descriptors, experience categories only, rendered separately from endorsements.

The critical mechanic is in the adaptive row. When a Hispanic-preference user taps "Abuela Approved" and a Black American-preference user taps "Grandma Approved" on the same restaurant, both taps increment the same elder_approved counter. The profile then renders the total using the label appropriate to whoever is currently viewing. A user with Spanish preference sees "101 dijeron Abuela Approved"; a default-preference user sees "101 said Grandma Approved." One truth, many voices. Never split adaptive counts into separate public counters, because splitting them would fragment a business's earned credibility across communities and would also leak community composition of the customer base to the public.

Section 2 — Display Format Specification

The public display string is {count} said {label} . Use the localized verb where a variant language applies, and never pad, round, or abbreviate the count.

State	Rendering	Notes
-------	-----------	-------

count >= 10	101 said Grandma Approved	Public badge, visible to everyone count == 1	1 said Grandma Approved	Internal/owner view only; still hidden publicly until 10
count 1-9	Hidden publicly; owner dashboard shows Emerging — 7 of 10	Encourages the business without exposing thin data
Top 3 by count	Pinned at top of profile with larger chip styling	The business's "signature" endorsements
Ties	Break by most recent tap timestamp	Keeps the profile feeling alive
Spanish preference	101 dijeron Abuela Approved	Verb localizes with the label
Portuguese preference	101 disseram Vovó Approved
French/Haitian Creole preference	101 di Granmè Approved

Additional display requirements: pinned badges must be tappable, and tapping opens a sheet that reads "101 neighbors said this" with the tag's plain-language definition (the `helper_text` field) so nobody is confused about what they are endorsing. Never show which specific users tapped a tag. Never show a variant-level breakdown publicly — the owner dashboard may show it only when a given variant itself has `count >= 10`.

Section 3 — The Ten Adaptive Tag Families

These ten families are the cultural engine of the system. They are reused across categories, which is deliberate: it means a user who learns what "Blessed Hands" means at a braider recognizes it instantly at a tailor, and it means counts accumulate against a small, meaningful vocabulary instead of scattering across hundreds of near-duplicates.

Each family below lists the baseline label (`default` , which is the Black American / African American voice, since that is the app's founding community) followed by the label for each of the eleven communities. All variants share one `tag_family` key and therefore one count.

3.1 `elder_approved` — the grandmother test

The single most important tag in the system. It answers the question: would the oldest, most discerning woman in my family approve of this place?

Community	Display label	Note
default (Black American)	Grandma Approved	Baseline
Hispanic / Latino	Abuela Approved
Ethiopian / East African	Emaye Approved	Amharic አማጽ, "my mother," the standard term of maternal reverence
Caribbean	Granny Approved	Haitian Creole preference renders Granmè Approved
West African	Mama Approved	Yoruba preference renders Iya Approved
Vietnamese	Bà Ngoại Approved
Korean	Halmeoni Approved
Brazilian	Vovó Approved
Indigenous / Native American	Elders Approved	Plural by design; authority is collective, not individual
Somali	Ayeeyo Approved
Arabic-speaking	Sitti Approved	Levantine preference may render Teta Approved

3.2 cooks_like_home — the taste of home

Community	Display label
default	Cooks Like Home
Hispanic / Latino	Como En Casa
Ethiopian / East African	Tastes Like Enat's Kitchen
Caribbean	Taste Like Yaad
West African	Village Kitchen Taste
Vietnamese	Cơm Nhà Good
Korean	Jip-bap Good
Brazilian	Comida De Mãe

Indigenous	Cooked The Old Way
Somali	Cunto Guri
Arabic-speaking	Akl Beiti

3.3 `treated_like_family` — how they made me feel

Community	Display label
default	Treated Me Like Family
Hispanic / Latino	Me Trataron Como Familia
Ethiopian / East African	Treated Me Like Zemed
Caribbean	Treat Mi Like Fam
West African	Treated Me Like Blood
Vietnamese	Treated Me Like Gia Đình
Korean	Treated Me Like Gajok
Brazilian	Me Tratou Como Família
Indigenous	Treated Me Like Relatives
Somali	Treated Me Like Qoys
Arabic-speaking	Treated Me Like Ahl

3.4 `speaks_my_language` — I was understood

Community	Display label
default	They Speak My Language
Hispanic / Latino	Se Habla Español (De Verdad)
Ethiopian / East African	Amharic Spoken Here
Caribbean	Patois Welcome — Haitian Creole preference: Kreyòl Pale Isit

West African	Pidgin Spoken Here — Yoruba preference: Yoruba Spoken Here
Vietnamese	Nói Tiếng Việt
Korean	Hangugeo OK
Brazilian	Fala Português
Indigenous	Our Language Honored
Somali	Af-Soomaali Laga Hadlaa
Arabic-speaking	Arabic Spoken Here

The parenthetical "(De Verdad)" is intentional and must not be edited out. It carries the whole point: many businesses claim Spanish is spoken and cannot actually serve a Spanish-speaking customer.

3.5 owned_by_us — ownership pride

Community	Display label
default	Black-Owned & Proud
Hispanic / Latino	Orgullo Latino
Ethiopian / East African	Habesha-Owned
Caribbean	Yaad-Owned
West African	Naija-Owned
Vietnamese	Người Việt Làm Chủ
Korean	Uri Gage (Our Store)
Brazilian	Orgulho Brasileiro
Indigenous	Native-Owned
Somali	Somali-Owned
Arabic-speaking	Arab-Owned & Proud

3.6 dressed_up_ready — the occasion test

Community	Display label
default	Sunday Best Ready
Hispanic / Latino	Quinceañera Ready
Ethiopian / East African	Beal Ready (Holiday Ready)
Caribbean	Sunday Dinner Sharp
West African	Owambe Ready
Vietnamese	Tết Ready
Korean	Chuseok Ready
Brazilian	Festa Ready
Indigenous	Powwow Ready
Somali	Eid Ready
Arabic-speaking	Eid Ready

3.7 auntie_energy — the warmth of service

Community	Display label
default	Auntie Energy
Hispanic / Latino	Tía Energy
Ethiopian / East African	Habesha Auntie Energy
Caribbean	Tantie Energy
West African	Anty Energy
Vietnamese	Cô Energy
Korean	Imo Energy
Brazilian	Tia Energy
Indigenous	Auntie Energy
Somali	Eedo Energy
Arabic-speaking	Khalto Energy

3.8 blessed_hands — skill as a gift

Community	Display label
default	Blessed Hands
Hispanic / Latino	Manos Benditas
Ethiopian / East African	Blessed Hands (Bruk Ej)
Caribbean	Blessed Hands
West African	God-Given Hands
Vietnamese	Tay Vàng (Golden Hands)
Korean	Geumson (Golden Hands)
Brazilian	Mãos Abençoadas
Indigenous	Good Hands, Good Medicine
Somali	Gacmo Barakaysan
Arabic-speaking	Yadayn Mubaraka

3.9 for_the_culture — they show up for us

Community	Display label
default	For The Culture
Hispanic / Latino	Por La Cultura
Ethiopian / East African	For Habesha
Caribbean	Fi Wi Culture
West African	For The Motherland
Vietnamese	Cho Cộng Đồng
Korean	For Our People
Brazilian	Pela Cultura
Indigenous	For The People

Somali	Dhaqanka Ayaa Loo Taagan
Arabic-speaking	Min Ajl Al-Thaqafa

3.10 knows_our_hair — texture and skin competence

Scoped to beauty, health (dermatology), children/family, hospitality, and education.

Community	Display label
default	They Know Our Hair
Hispanic / Latino	Saben De Rizos
Ethiopian / East African	Knows Habesha Hair
Caribbean	Know Fi Wi Hair
West African	Knows African Hair
Vietnamese	Knows Fine Straight Hair
Korean	Knows Our Hair Texture
Brazilian	Sabe Cuidar De Cacheado
Indigenous	Respects Long Hair
Somali	Waa Garanayaan Timaha
Arabic-speaking	Knows Textured & Covered Hair

For Indigenous users, "Respects Long Hair" is not cosmetic language — long hair carries spiritual significance in many nations, and a stylist who understands that is worth naming. Do not replace this variant with a generic one.

Section 4 — Variant Resolution and the One-Way Mirror Rule

Variant resolution must be driven entirely by an explicit, user-controlled setting. In Settings, the user chooses a Community Language from a list (default, Hispanic/Latino, Ethiopian/East African, Caribbean, West African, Vietnamese, Korean, Brazilian, Indigenous, Somali, Arabic-speaking), and that stored value — and nothing else — selects the label variant. If the value is null, render the default label.

Forbidden inputs to variant resolution, without exception: device locale inferred as ethnicity, user name, profile photo, neighborhood or pin location, browsing history, previously endorsed businesses, business ownership designations the user has viewed, or any model-inferred demographic. Device locale may be used for UI translation but must never silently set the community variant.

The user-facing explanation string is fixed: "Tags appear in your chosen community language. Change it anytime in Settings." Never write copy such as "Because you're Black" or "For Latina users like you." A user must never learn from the app that the app has an opinion about their identity.

On the business side, the dashboard may show the aggregate count for a tag family and may show variant breakdown only where that individual variant has ten or more taps. Aggregate insight phrasing follows the existing MWM pattern — behavior and demand, framed at the group level, for example "Grandma Approved is your strongest endorsement (101), and Spanish-language variants are growing." Never expose an individual user's taps to a business, ever, even in aggregate exports.

Section 5 — Master Tag Tables by Category

Every table below lists the tag key, the display label (baseline `default` label for adaptive tags), the type, the subcategory scope, and the helper text shown in the tap sheet. Adaptive tags reference the family from Section 3; seed them with all eleven community labels.

One note on adaptive rows before you read the tables. In the tables below, adaptive tags are written with their family name in the tag-key column (for example `elder_approved`) so the cultural mechanic reads clearly. In the actual seed file, each adaptive tag carries a category-scoped `tag_key` (`food_elder_approved`, `health_elder_approved`, `auto_elder_approved`, and so on) while sharing the same `tag_family` value. This is deliberate: it lets a restaurant's Grandma Approved count and a mechanic's Unc Trusts This Shop count live independently per business while still resolving labels from one shared cultural lexicon. Use the `tag_key` values in `endorsement_tags_seed.json` as authoritative for the database; use the tables below to understand intent, scope, and voice.

Category 1 — Food & Drink

Section 6 — Vibe Tags (Experience Categories Only)

Vibe tags describe atmosphere, not quality. They answer "what kind of night is this?" rather than "was it good?" They live in the same table with `tag_type = 'vibe'` but render in a separate profile section labeled "The Vibe" using outlined chips rather than filled endorsement chips, and they use the same 10-tap display threshold and the same `{count}` `said {label}` format.

Vibe tags are enabled for exactly seven categories. Do not show vibe tags on any other category. A plumber does not have a vibe.

Add a `community_language` column to the users table if one does not already exist: `ALTER TABLE users ADD COLUMN community_language VARCHAR(24) DEFAULT NULL;` . Null means render default labels. This column is set only by the user in Settings and must never be written by an inference job, an import script, or an admin bulk update.

For adaptive families, `business_endorsement_counts` still keys on `tag_key` , and every adaptive tag uses one `tag_key` per family per category context, so all variants naturally aggregate. Do not create per-variant `tag_key` rows.

Section 8 — Tag Selection Logic

The candidate tag list for a business is a deterministic function of category and subcategory, then labeled for the viewing user. Pseudocode:

Plain Text

async function getTapPanel(businessId: number, viewerId: number | null) {
  const biz = await getBusiness(businessId); // category_id, subca const viewer = viewerId ? await getUser(viewerId) : null;
  const community = viewer?.community_language ?? 'default';

  // 1. Candidate tags: pure category/subcategory function. Identity plays NO r const tags = await db.select().from(endorsementTags).where(and( eq(endorsementTags.isActive, true), sql`${biz.category_id} = ANY(${endorsementTags.categoryIds})`, sql`(cardinality(${endorsementTags.subcategoryKeys}) = 0
      OR ${biz.subcategory_key} = ANY(${endorsementTags.subcategoryKeys}))`
  ));

  // 2. Vibe gating const VIBE_ENABLED_CATEGORIES = [1, 5, 6, 10, 12, 14, 16, 21];
  const endorsements = tags.filter(t => t.tag_type !== 'vibe');
  const vibes = VIBE_ENABLED_CATEGORIES.includes(biz.category_id)
    ? tags.filter(t => t.tag_type === 'vibe')
    : [];

  // 3. Label resolution (adaptive families only) const labeled = await Promise.all([...endorsements, ...vibes].map(async t =>
    ...t,
    label: t.tag_family
      ? await resolveVariant(t.tag_family, community, biz.subcategory_key, t.de
      : t.default_label
  )));
});

// 4. Order: pinned earned tags first (count desc), then remaining by sort_weight return orderPanel(labeled, await getCounts(businessId));

// Variant resolution: subcategory override -> community -> default -> tag default async function resolveVariant(family, community, subKey, fallback) { return (await lookup(family, community, subKey))
    ?? (await lookup(family, community, null))
    ?? (await lookup(family, 'default', null))
    ?? fallback;

Panel ordering rules in `orderPanel`: tags the business has already earned (`count >= 10`) appear first sorted by count descending; then adaptive tags; then category-specific tags by `sort_weight`; then universal tags. Cap the initial panel at twelve endorsement chips with a "More ways to praise" expander for the rest, and render vibe chips in their own collapsed-by-default "The Vibe" block. Tags the viewer has already tapped render in a filled/selected state so a second tap reads clearly as an un-tap.

Section 9 — API Endpoints

Method	Path	Purpose	Notes
GET	<code>/api/businesses/:id/endorsements</code>	Public profile read	Returns only tags with <code>count >= 10</code> , top three flagged <code>pinned: true</code> , each with resolved label and <code>said_verb</code>
GET	<code>/api/businesses/:id/endorsement-panel</code>	Auth required	Full candidate tag set with resolved labels, plus <code>viewerTapped: string[]</code>
POST	<code>/api/businesses/:id/endorsements</code>	Cast one tap	Body <code>{ tag_key }</code> . Idempotent insert; increments counter in the same transaction
DELETE	<code>/api/businesses/:id/endorsements/:tag_key</code>	Un-tap	Deletes ledger row and decrements counter, floored at zero

GET	/api/business-owner/:id/endorsement-insights	Owner dashboard	Aggregate counts including sub-threshold "emerging" tags; variant breakdown only where that variant count >= 10
-----	--	-----------------	---

POST must run as a single transaction: insert into business_endorsements with ON CONFLICT (business_id, user_id, tag_key) DO NOTHING , then upsert business_endorsement_counts incrementing by the number of rows actually inserted, and set last_tapped_at = NOW() . Return the new count and whether the tag just crossed the ten-tap threshold so the client can show the celebratory state. Never trust a client-supplied count.

Response shape for the public read:

Section 10 — Eligibility, Anti-Gaming, and Integrity

Endorsements are the app's trust currency, so the write path needs guardrails from day one. Require an authenticated account with a verified email or phone before any tap is accepted. Gate tapping behind a lightweight visit signal — either a device location within a reasonable radius of the pin at some point in the prior thirty days, or an explicit "I've been here" confirmation that is recorded on the endorsement row as visit_signal . Do not block honest users behind hard GPS requirements, since many will endorse from home hours later, but do record which signal was used so fraud review has something to work with.

Rate limits should cap a single account at roughly six endorsed businesses per day and eight tags per business, and should flag any cluster where more than ten new accounts endorse the same business within one hour. Suppress a business's public badges from display, without deleting data, when a review flag is raised, and route the case to admin review. Owners must be able to see their counts but never able to change them; if an owner disputes a count, the resolution path is admin review, not owner edit.

For seeded `live_unclaimed` pins, endorsements accumulate normally before any owner claims the listing. This is the point: when outreach happens, the traction data is already there, and the pitch becomes "217 people have already endorsed you on Mapping With Melanin." Make sure the owner-claim flow surfaces existing endorsement counts on first login, because that is the strongest possible activation moment.

One further integrity rule, tied directly to the app's values: the tags `travel_felt_safe_whole_time` , `sport_safe_space_for_girls` , `auto_safe_for_women_alone` , `kids_safe_for_my_baby` , and `vibe_solo_traveler_safe` are community-reported experience only. They must never be computed from, cross-referenced with, or displayed alongside police, arrest, crime, or census income data. Their helper text already says "community-reported," and that language must survive to production.

Section 11 — UI Copy Specification

Surface	Copy
Panel header	What stands out?
Panel subhead	One tap is one endorsement. No essay required.
Empty state (no earned tags yet)	Be the first to say what stands out about this spot.
Sub-threshold state (owner view)	Emerging — 7 of 10 taps to go public
Threshold crossed toast	You made it official. This spot is now Grandma Approved.
Already-tapped chip	Tapped (tap again to undo)
Vibe section header	The Vibe
Vibe section subhead	What kind of visit is this?

Language explainer	Tags appear in your chosen community language. Change it anytime in Settings.
Owner dashboard header	What your community says about you
Owner dashboard note	You can't add or edit these. They're earned, one neighbor at a time.

Forbidden copy anywhere in this feature: any use of "review," "rating," "stars," or "score"; any sentence that explains tag language by referring to the user's race, ethnicity, gender, or age; any negative or corrective tag. The word to use is endorsement.

Section 12 — Build Order and Acceptance Criteria

Build in five steps. First, create the four tables plus the `users.community_language` column and import `endorsement_tags_seed.json` and `endorsement_tag_variants_seed.json`. Second, implement the panel read endpoint and confirm that category and subcategory filtering returns the right chips for a spot check of at least ten businesses across ten different categories. Third, implement tap and un-tap with the unique constraint and transactional counter, and verify the constraint by attempting a double tap through the API rather than through the UI. Fourth, build the public profile display with the ten-tap threshold, top-three pinning, and the `{count} said {label}` string. Fifth, build the owner insights view with emerging counts and the variant-breakdown suppression rule.

Acceptance criteria, all of which must pass before this feature ships:

#	Criterion	How to verify
1	A double POST of the same tag by the same user yields count 1	Direct API call twice, then query <code>business_endorsement_counts</code>
2	Tags below 10 never appear in the public endpoint response	Seed a tag at count 9, hit <code>/endorsements</code> , confirm absence
3	Adaptive variants aggregate to one count	Tap <code>elder_approved</code> as a default-preference user and a Hispanic-preference user; count must be 2 on one row
4	Label flips with the Settings change only	Change <code>community_language</code> , reload profile, confirm "Abuela Approved" renders and the count is unchanged

5	No business-side write path exists	Grep the codebase for any owner-scoped mutation touching <code>endorsement</code> tables; result must be empty
6	Vibe tags never render on a non-experience category	Load a plumber, an attorney, and an IT firm; "The Vibe" section must be absent
7	Faith leader titles resolve per subcategory	Load a mosque and a church; confirm "Imam Knows Your Name" and "Pastor Knows Your Name" respectively
8	No identity-based copy	Grep UI strings for "because you", "for users like you", and any race or ethnicity term in explanatory copy
9	Safety tags carry no external data joins	Confirm no query joins safety tag counts to any crime, arrest, or income dataset
10	Seed completeness	<code>SELECT COUNT() FROM endorsement_tags</code> returns 340 rows (311 endorsement + 29 vibe) and <code>SELECT COUNT() FROM endorsement_tag_variants</code> returns 132 rows; every one of the ten families has 11 base variant rows

Section 13 — Companion Files

Two machine-readable seed files accompany this document so nothing has to be retyped.

File	Contents
<code>endorsement_tags_seed.json</code>	340 tag definitions (311 endorsement, 29 vibe) with <code>tag_key</code> , <code>tag_family</code> , <code>tag_type</code> , <code>default_label</code> , <code>helper_text</code> , <code>category_ids</code> , <code>subcategory_keys</code> , <code>sort_weight</code>
<code>endorsement_tag_variants_seed.json</code>	132 variant rows: ten adaptive families across eleven communities, plus <code>said_verb</code> values and 22 subcategory overrides (faith leader titles, health/auto/agriculture phrasings, Haitian Creole and Yoruba secondary renderings)

Every category receives between thirteen and seventeen endorsement tags, comfortably above the eight-to-twelve minimum, with the surplus concentrated in Health & Wellness (17), Faith & Spirituality (16), Home & Property Services (15), and Sports & Recreation (15) — the categories where the stakes for our community are highest. Vibe tags are present on exactly the eight approved experience categories and absent everywhere else.

The two Python builders (`build_tags_seed.py` , `build_variants_seed.py`) are also included. If a tag needs to be added or reworded later, edit the builder and regenerate rather than hand-patching JSON, so the seed and the document never drift apart.

Import both directly. If any tag in the JSON conflicts with a tag already in the database, keep the JSON version — this document is the source of truth.
